National Portrait Gallery

Associates

The National Portrait Gallery holds the world's largest and most comprehensive collection of portraits, offering an inspiring journey through British history. The Gallery's Collection charts the lives and achievements of Britain's most influential and famous figures.

Situated in the heart of London, the Gallery is the perfect place to enjoy an unparalleled collection of portraits, in a stylish and stimulating setting. Late opening on Thursday and Friday evenings enables you to enjoy the Gallery after hours with the acclaimed Portrait Restaurant offering the ideal location for a drink or dinner.

Support from individuals is vital to the Gallery. It helps us to present critically praised exhibitions, a range of changing displays and educational projects, and allows us to develop our Collection for the future. It enables us to commission new works and purchase portraits like the recent photographs acquired of Joan Armatrading, George Best, Julia Margaret Cameron, Charlotte Church, Orla Keily, Nelson Mandela, Emily Mortimer, Daniel Radcliffe and Simon Schama ensuring that the Gallery reflects the history makers of today and tomorrow.

The Gallery
'illuminates the past. Portraits do not just record,
but define how and even who we remember.'

In praise of the National Portrait Gallery
The Guardian
